

Thirteenth Annual International Invitational Meeting of The Brunswik Society

"Best ever! Even better than the previous best ever..."

Saturday, November 22, 1997
Room 305-306, Marriott Hotel, 1201 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19107

Agenda

8:00 - 8:30 Continental Breakfast

8:30 - 10:00 Morning Session I

Welcome

Tom Stewart and Jeryl Mumpower

A fast and frugal lens model

Gerd Gigerenzer

Organizational repairs for cognitive shortcomings

Josh Klayman

Automation bias in professional flight crews

Kathy Mosier

10:00 - 10:30 Break

10:30 - 12:00 Morning Session II

Cross-cultural consensus in personality judgments

Linda Albright

Self-insight in multi-cue judgment making: What can people tell us?

Clare Harries

Judgmental accuracy and task predictability

Tom Stewart and Naiyi Hsiao

Lens model analyses in calibration research

Greg Brake and Mike Doherty

12:00 - 1:30 Lunch (on your own)

1:30 - 3:00 Afternoon Session I

Does "separation of powers" mean separation of cognitive function? Yes!

Kenneth Hammond

Discussants: Mike Doherty, Terry Connolly, Jeryl Mumpower

3:00 - 3:30 Break

3:30 - 5:00 Afternoon Session II

Negotiating across disciplines: The implications of Social Judgment Research for theories of international political economy

Eileen Doherty

Testing congruence in a simulated environment

Phil Dunwoody

Vicarious functioning: An ambiguous concept

Elke Kurz

Comments on Brunswik' s copy of Woodworth

Ryan D. Tweney

Presentation of the Brunswik-Hammond Young Investigator Award
(1997 Recipient: Greg Brake)

5:00 Adjourn

Meeting organizers:

- Tom Stewart (T.STEWART@ALBANY.EDU)

Jeryl Mumpower (J.MUMPOWER@ALBANY.EDU)

Phone: (518) 442-3850 Fax: (518) 442-3398

Revised 11/26/97